Tomao then let Illinois Lottery Acting Director, Greg Smith, explain that he joined State Senator Sue Rezin, Ottawa Mayor Robert Eschbach and Board President Marty Ricconi, at the ribbon-cutting for a new Reading Oasis at the offices of Youth Services Bureau of Illinois Valley in Ottawa, Illinois. The Lottery and Scholastic Books jointly sponsored the creation of the Reading Oasis for the facility, which serves as a family unification site for parents working to regain custody of their children from foster care. The site has more than 1,800 books for children ages K through 8th grade, as well as bookshelves, chairs, and audio-visual materials. This site is one of two co-sponsored by the Illinois Lottery and Scholastic Books. The second site, at the Boys and Girls Club in Danville, Illinois, is scheduled to open later this month.

Private Management Update

Director Smith updated the Board on the private management procurement process for the Lottery, stating that a private management agreement with Camelot Illinois was executed on October 13, 2017. Camelot Illinois will assume Phase One private management responsibilities on January 2, 2018 and Phase Two responsibilities on April 2, 2018. A technical transition will take place over the next twelve months.

Public Comment

Board Chair, Blair Garber, noted to the board there were no requests to speak beforehand and time permitting he would take public comment before adjournment, and reminded the room that public comment must be confirmed in advance.

With time permitting member of the public Kathy Gilroy of Villa Park, Illinois, spoke to the board on several topics. Ms. Gilroy stated she should not need to notify the agency prior to speaking at a meeting citing the Open Meetings Act. Ms. Gilroy then addressed her ongoing concern of mandated language on Illinois Lottery advertisements. Ms. Gilroy also stated her concern of a Casino awarding players Lottery Tickets as prizes. Ms. Gilroy then asked the Board to force a stop to Queen of Hearts Raffles taking place across the state.

When Ms. Gilroy was finished speaking, Chairman Garber asked Deputy General Counsel, Jessica White, to address the Open Meetings Act and its policies. White stated that the act allows public comments, but also allows the board to create reasonable parameters for public comment, which we've done in our bylaws published on the website.

Addressing public comment, Lottery Chief of Staff, Jayme Odom, stated that the private manager has an attorney on staff that inspects every ad and disclaimer. Odom went on to say different advertisements have different appropriate disclaimers and that the Lottery takes its mission very seriously.

ADJOURNMENT

Chairman Garber requested a motion to adjourn. Board Member Olinger moved to close the meeting, and Board Member Floyd seconded the motion, which was unanimously approved. Chairman Garber adjourned the meeting at 2:21 p.m.

Respectfully submitted,

Brooke Mayfield
Lottery Control Board Secretary
