7-Eleven, Vernon Hills
Paul, Store Manager

7-Eleven in Vernon Hills sold a $1,000,000 winning St. Patrick's Day Raffle ticket. Overall, 7-Eleven stores sold 10% of all St. Patrick's Day Raffle tickets!

Paul said, "The most important thing I do to help promote lottery in my store is get to know my regular lottery customers." He also prints winning numbers so customers can grab them and go if they are in a hurry, and he always lets players know about new games. He made sure to tell his customers about the St. Patrick's Day Raffle and asked for the sale, often by saying, "I have an offer for you that you cannot refuse!"

Jiffi Stop, sold the $4,750,000 jackpot prize in the Thursday, May 4, Lotto drawing.

Casey's General Store, Waterman
Deb Faber, Supervisor (left) with Dave Weiler, Store Manager (right)

Casey's General Store sold a $4 Million winning 100X The Money ticket. Dave said, "We have been selling a lot of the 100X The Money tickets ever since our customers heard about the big winner – this is a really popular ticket." Additionally, he attributed their higher volume of lottery sales to instant ticket dispensers being displayed on the counter where their customers can see them.

Snappy Convenience
Center, Chicago
with Joe, Clerk (right)

Snappy Convenience Center sold a Mega Millions Quick Pick ticket that won $5,000,000 in the Friday, April 14 drawing.

Wheelchairs and Other Power-Driven Mobility Devices

People with mobility, circulatory, or respiratory disabilities use a variety of devices for mobility. Some use walkers, canes, crutches, or braces while others use manually-operated or power wheelchairs, all of which are primarily designed for use by people with disabilities.

Businesses are legally required to allow people with disabilities to use these devices in all areas where customers are allowed to go. To ensure that your business is fully accessible to customers using mobility devices, visit ada.gov for specific requirements.
